Cemetery Damage Repaired

About 85 volunteer workers, with the aid of four monument companies, repaired the Hallowe'en vandalism at Maplewood Cemetery yesterday.

"It was probably in better shape after we got through than it was before Hallowe'en," John a. Buyck, president of Maplewood Cemetery Association, said.

Vandals had knocked down or broken 146 of the approximately 800 gravestones in the cemetery on Middle Road, near Clakins Road.

Specialized equipment, the compounds needed to repair the broken gravestones and instruction to the volunteer workers were provided by the four monument firms.

The volunteers were from Henrietta's three fire units, the Henrietta Knights of Columbus and the Guardian Angels Catholic Church.

Buyck said it took only about three hours to repair the broken gravestones.

Charles Zornow, lifelong resident

Charles Zornow died from cancer at Highland Hospital, May 15, 1990. He was 70.

Mr. Zornow was born and raised in West Henrietta, living on an Erie Station Road farm all of his life. He attended the old Monroe Academy and later in life received a first-class stationary engineer certificate.

He worked as a custodian in the Rush-Henrietta Central School District until 1967 and then went to work for Rochester Institute of Technology as a stationary engineer. Mr. Zornow retired from RIT in 1985.

Aside from a full-time hobby as a farmer, Mr. Zornow was also a member of the West Henrietta Masonic Lodge and a former fireman.

The Rev. Delbert Tiemann from the Pinnacle Lutheran Church gave the funeral service Saturday, May 19, at Halloran Funeral Home on West Henrietta Road.

In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Henrietta Volunteer Ambulance or the West Henrietta Fire Department would be appreciated.

Aside from his son, he is survived by two nieces, Dorothea Grace and Marlene Dobson; a brother and sister-in-law, Charles and Chrystal Holloway of Florida; and a cousin, Warner Zornow of Henrietta. His wife, Mary, predeceased him in 1985.

Constance Nichols, family-oriented

Constance "Connie" Nichols died of cancer at her home under the Hospice of Rochester program on May 19, 1990. She was 76.

Daughter Gail Phillips noted that she couldn't say enough things about the hospice program that helped her and her family cope with her mother's disease and death.

"We mourned her when she was alive because she suffered so much," her daughter said. "We rejoice in her death because she is at peace."

An orphan, Mrs. Nichols was raised at St. Pat's on Genesee Street. She graduated eighth grade from Nazareth Academy and then worked as a waitress until she married Richard Nichols on Nov. 29, 1934.

Her life revolved around her family, according to her daughter. She spent her time raising her daughter, doing arts and crafts, gardening, and bowling.

Mrs. Nichols also had home bureau when it was in exsistence. She and her husband enjoyed traveling and did so quite a bit.

The shy personality of Mrs. Nichols did not keep her from having many friends who were close to her throughout her life.

The funeral was held Tuesday, May 22, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Rush. Interment was at Maplewood Cemetery on Middle Road, Henrietta.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to the Hospice of Rochester, 311 Alexander St., Rochester, N.Y. 14604.

Aside from her daughter, she is survived by her husband, Richard; her son-in-law, Donald Phillips of Rush; her sister, Betty Lowanguth; three grandchildren, Darlyn, Lindsay, and Nicholas; and two great-grandchildren, Shannon and Brandon.
